

Ministries

The Bachelor of Science in Ministries prepares you to serve God in traditional or non-traditional ministry settings. Explore the knowledge, skills and personal values that will prepare you biblically, relationally and practically, whether you're called to serve in a church, nonprofit or cross-cultural situation.

Highlights

- On-campus format.
- Prepare, if desired, for advanced study in the area of ministry.
- Construct a ministry philosophy to guide your ministry and work.
- Learn from professors experienced in ministry.
- Engage in practical coursework and projects that can be immediately applied to your current work or ministry.
- Build ministry on the foundation of Northwestern's rich Christ-centered, evangelical heritage.

Career opportunities

A Ministries degree will prepare you for roles in a variety of settings, such as:

- Churches
- Education
- Health or hospice care
- Youth ministry
- Individual and family services
- Nonprofit organizations

Note: Roles in some settings may require additional education.
